

ABSTRACT

A method for communicating information between a public server and a private server, where the public server is unable to initiate communication with the private server. The method includes indirectly notifying the private server to poll the public server.